PUBLIC ECONOMIC LAW | ENVIRONMENT AND PLANNING LAW |

Since 2004 Dr. Stefan Wiesendahl advises companies and private clients but also public entities on all aspects of public law. His focus lies in infrastructure, environmental law, nuclear power law, emission control law and product safety law. Proceedings with public participation and environmental impact assessment are often part of his work. Thus, Dr. Stefan Wiesendahl's field covers the complete professional spectrum of public administrative law. He is frequently actively involved in projects. His consultations often start with the analysis of the public legal situation of a case and extend to giving advice on the scope of the legal design and the proceedings necessary for their realization in the form of permits, as well as supervising general administrative legal proceedings (mostly for public holdings). After the successful conduction of such proceedings, he represents his clients in any subsequent court disputes. He is editor of the magazine Bergerecht.

Curriculum Vitae

Dr. Stefan Wiesendahl studied Law in Trier. During his doctoral studies, he was a scholarship holder of the fellowship course on European and International Corporate Law at the University of Bonn and a research associate at the Institute for Environmental and Technology Law at the University of Trier. In 2003 Dr. Stefan Wiesendahl passed his second legal state examination in Düsseldorf and started practicing as a lawyer at Kümmerlein Rechtsanwälte & Notare, having worked internationally for some months previously in Washington D.C. Dr. Stefan Wiesendahl holds seminars on aspects of public law and on German and European Environmental Law. He is a member of the Society of Essen's Theatre and Philharmonic Orchestra.
